WASHINGTON NOTES

FEDERAL SAVING

The Hoover Commission has laid down a program of budgetary and accounting reform which it maintains will provide the opportunity for saving $4,000,000,000 a year in Federal spending. The Commission recommends the establishment of an Office of Accounting in the Budget Bureau to get a closer control on spending.

DISARMAMENT

Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany, in Washington, recently urged President Eisenhower and Premier Bulganin of Soviet Russia to "declare their determinations to translate controlled disarmament into reality." He insisted that limitation of armament is a "prerequisite to" general European security.

FEDERAL REAL ESTATE

Calling for an end to "waste and decentralization" in government real estate management, the Hoover Commission reported that the Government had a $40,800,000,000 investment in 63,200,000 acres, over and above nearly 800,000,000 in the public domain.

NATO

A meeting of the North Atlantic Council, in advance of the scheduled Big Four Meeting, has been proposed in order to permit the United States, Britain and France to take counsel with their allies.

ATOMIC FALL-OUT

A recent article in the Bulletin of Atomic Scientists warns that the "persistence of fallout for weeks and months" after an atomic bombing means that the "shelter phase" of Civil Defense cannot be limited to a few days, as some had previously thought.

POSTAL-PAY RAISE

President Eisenhower has signed the bill granting an average eight per cent pay increase to 500,000 employees of the Post Office Department. The President had vetoed an earlier bill which granted an average of 8.8 per cent pay increase.

TRANSOCEANIC TELEPHONE CABLE

Work on the world's first transoceanic telephone cable began June 22. The cable will stretch from Newfoundland to Scotland and will be 2,372 miles long. Twenty-five years of research and two years of international business negotiations already have gone into the project.

JET PASSENGER PLANE

Douglas Aircraft Corporation has announced that it would build the nation's first jet passenger transport plane. The plane, carrying as many as 125 passengers, is expected to be able to fly nonstop at 515 miles per hour.

TRUMAN

Charging that the Eisenhower Administration was "being used" by "tricky and devious" private raiders of public power former President Truman urged the election in 1956 of a Democratic Administration that believes in public development of the nation's power resources.

NEW MAIL SERVICE

Postmaster - General Arthur E. Summerfield started the department's new certified mail services recently. The certified service, experimental since early this year, thus became a regular part of postal operations. It makes a cheap form of registry service—at 15 cents instead of the former 30 cents—for postal items without monetary value.

BANK MERGERS

The Federal Reserve Board has asked Congress for new anti-monopoly controls over the nation's banks. The chairman of the board specifically recommended that bank mergers and consolidations, which cut the number of banks by 508 from 1950 through 1954, be brought under the Clayton Anti-Trust Act. He also urged that government approval be required on all such amalgamations.

FARM RECEIPTS

Farmers' cash receipts from marketings in the first five months of 1955 dropped three per cent from the corresponding period a year ago, according to the Agriculture Department. Marketings which totaled approximately $10,200,000,000 were slightly larger than a year earlier, but prices averaged five per cent lower. The biggest decline was in cash receipts from hogs, for which prices averaged more than 30 per cent lower than in the first five months of 1954.

STEERS RUNAWAY CAR

Los Angeles.- Seeing an out-of-control car speeding down a boulevard, with its driver collapsed over the steering wheel, Jack Fradkin 34-year-old garageman, sprinted alongside the car and managed to steer it away from oncoming traffic. Fradkin finally made a desperate lunge halfway through the driver's open window and turned off the ignition. Wheif police reached the scene, the driver, Hubert L. Weiss, 72, was dead, apparently of a heart attack.

LAWN-MOWER BURNS: 2 HURT

District Heights, Md.- David S. Maupin, 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Maupin, was playing with the family's gasoline-powered lawn mower in the basement of their home. Life is a round-and-round affair eat animals, animals eat animals, smaller animals eat vegetables eat animalcules eat bacilli, bacilli microbes, and microbes eat us. Marshall takes the short cut. —St. Journal.

Of the men I know say they read much, despise the radio, the television, don't play cards or golf, and hate to travel, so what they do, except shave, yawn, sleep, and growl? —William

Man worries about what the world will have in store, but a man worries about what the stores will have in the future. —Bob Hastings.

A country editor down in Georgia was told of a perfectly honest politician. Says that a candidate ran on a platform that had two planks: to mend the street paved in front of his home and to clean out the ditch that had his lot. He lost out by two votes but the winners paved his street and cleaned out his ditch, so he really won.

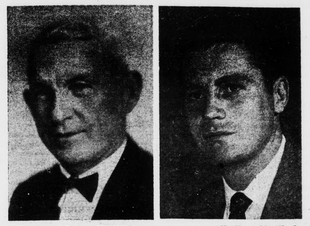
We told a paragraph about coins last week. A lady came in with an old Flying Eagle large cent; and another friend Harry Goin came by with his collection of old coins: an Indian cent, and good specimens of the years 1868, 1795, 1798, 1803, 1795, 1796, 1801, and also an 1857 dime.

There is one device to which a publicist can resort to fill up his page. That is to check his desk and tell us what he finds. I have not much stuff for many, many years, and maybe the desk needs cleaning over anyway, so here goes: It has a "den" replete with a big and comfortable lounging chair, a rocker, other chairs, a sizeable desk, a typewriter, filing cabinet, a set of bookshelves and an odd table. The bookshelves rate highest to the guests and boys by. By count they contain only 243 volumes. But they are loaded with odds and ends of books, leaflets, cards, and just plain "fruff that one saves." Stuff in the form of programs of famous stage shows I have seen; a hotel door "please do not disturb" sign; china bric-a-brac; my flash camera and bulbs; my lens I bought at the factory in Tampa; my pipes and tobacco; pictures of my mother and father; a few antique vases, etc.

The big desk is green, and has a new Royal typewriter on the left-hand shelf. The filing box is all too full. I have three huge boxes of manuscripts and clippings in the storage closet. There is no system to it. I just know I have a manuscript someplace on hundreds of sheets and odds are 40 - 60 that I will look up any particular one. Right off, I mention the flower-filled china container which always has a supply of hard candy. There is a good desk lamp, which I seldom use. A quill pen in a china inkwell. Two ash trays. A letter basket. Paper. And a long drawer. Perhaps I will look at that drawer. Have not checked it lately: let's see...ree, three nice pennies.. what's this: a partial ballot from the 1888 presidential election—17 years before I was born. Two sheets of carbon paper. A receipt for my life insurance. A tube of paste, a pair of scissors. A pencil. A leaflet from Cliff's Restaurant in Los Angeles. A housekeef notebook, and the letter copy is that of remarks I made at a gathering in 1962. (I will not go overtime). And, next to Betsy, here is a five-page copy of the findings when I had to give me a thorough physical check-up in 1952. It gives the heart all right, and maybe it is time for another checking in-stead. Here's a roll of films I took but never had developed. Wonder how the pictures could be? Certainly foolish, taking a roll of film and not having it developed. And in the other hand some letters from home. And a guy in Chicago writing about his Indian arrowheads; a letter from a Wisconsin cheese man; two keys I cannot account for; stubs from tickets to football games; a fine picture of Mother—that is goes, the "stuff" of my literary editor keeps in his den. Of importance: but, if it is the same, think I will let my good den be. It's nobody's business.

Close Contests In Tuesday's Dem. Primary

FOR COMMISSIONER OF REVENUE



. . . James H. O'Brien . . . H. H. Caldwell, Jr.

FOR SHERIFF

. . . J. Alex Bingham . . . David T. Robertson

FOR TREASURER

. . . John Garland Plunkett

. . . Thomas Terrill Martin

A long political campaign will come to a close next Tuesday, when Appomattox County voters will go to the polls to participate in a Democratic primary election for county officers. Polls will open at 6:30 A. M. and close at 7:30 P. M.

General estimate is that the total vote will exceed 2,400, out of nearly 2,800 eligible. What is perhaps a record mail vote has been cast, and in all likelihood the total mail vote will go over the 300 mark.

There are four contests awaiting the decision of the voters.

In Stonewall Magisterial District there is a three-way race for the office of supervisor. Incumbent John P. Alvis, Jr., is being opposed by O. W. Martin, Jr., and Hubert B. Scruggs. Over 800 votes are expected at the three precincts in Stonewall District.

Veteran incumbent James H. O'Brien is being opposed for nomination for another term as Commissioner of the Revenue by H. H. Caldwell, Jr.

Incumbent David T. Robertson is being opposed for Sheriff by J. Alex Bingham, a retired State Police Lieutenant.

Deputy Treasurer John Garland Plunkett and Thomas Terrill Martin, are vieing for the nomination for County Treasurer.

These contests have been the occasion of active campaigns. both by the contestants and their friends. Many letters have been mailed to the voters and personal appeals have kept all hands on the go fon the past three months.

Predictions as to the outcome depend on which side you question, but the overa-all conclusion is that there will be a heavy vote and that at least some of the contests will be close. Most contestants are preparing their workers for a major effort on election day and will try to see that no eligible voter fails to go to the polls.

There are ten voting precincts in Appomattox County. Election officials, acording to a list secured by this newspaper yesterday, will be as follows:

August 1 Last Date for New Wheat Acreage

A date of August 1, 1955 has been established as the final date on which the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee may accept requests for new 1956 wheat allotments, C. S. Rush, chairman of the Appomattox County ASC has announced.

Under the wheat allotment program a "new farm" is one on which no wheat was seeded in any of the years 1953, 1954, and 1955. To apply for an allotment the farm operator must file an application with the county ASC office. Blank application forms are available for use in filing these requests.

To be considered for a new farm allotment, farmers will be required to furnish certain information for the consideration of the county committee. Such information would include the reason for requesting an allotment, why wheat should be produced rather than some other small grain, why no wheat was seeded during the past three years, and an explanation of the crop rotation system. Also the operator must expect to derive at least half of his livelihood from the farm.

Mr. Rush explained that any wheat allotment granted to new farms must come out of a small reserve which the county committee will establish for that purpose. "This reserve naturally will not be large since any wheat allotment acreage set aside for new farms must reduce the total allotment for old established wheat by that amount," the chairman explained.
